Group to Study Ways to Raise Building Funds

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislature today approved formation of a 10-man committee to study the feasibility of financing an educational construction program from current revenues.

The House passed a resolution sponsored by Bradley County Rep. Bill Wells after amending it to require the committee to report back by next Tuesday. The Senate adopted the amended resolution soon after.

The requirement for a report by Tuesday was added because next Tuesday night the House Revenue and Taxation Committee will consider a bill which would set up a statewide referendum on a proposed soft-drink tax to finance a construction bond issue.

The committee called for in Wells' resolution would have three house members, two from the Senate, one from the governor's administrative staff and one each appointed by the chairman of the University of Arkansas, the chairman of the State Hospital Board and the chairman of the Children's Colony Board.

The resolution directs the committee to report on the possibility that $4 million a year from current revenues could be diverted to a college construction fund.

The proposed soft-drink tax has become one of the most controversial matters to come before the current session of the General Assembly. The proposal was drawn up by the Association of College Presidents and beneficiaries of the bond money would be the University, seven state colleges, the state hospital and the Children's Colony.

The House approved 95-0 a bill

If Tax Fails Faubus to Revise Plans

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that if a proposed soft drink tax fails, he will revise his plans and give the bulk of an expected $10 million surplus fund to the State Hospital and Arkansas Children's Colony.

Those institutions are scheduled to get about $10 million under the proposal for a $52 million construction bond issue to be financed by a soft drink tax.

Faubus said Wednesday that a controversy over the new tax had caused him to consider revising his plans for the $10 million surplus expected to be available by June 30. He first had proposed giving $4 million to the state parks, $1.5 million for a new Revenue Department building, $500,000 for a new girls vocational school and the rest for other projects.

Today, Faubus told newsmen, "If it appears that the $10 million surplus is going to be the only money we have for construction, I will give the bulk of it to the State Hospital — I would say at least $5 million and maybe $6 million — and the Children's Colony."

He said the state has an obligation to complete the colony, at Conway, so it can take care of more children.

RB47 Converted B47 Combat Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—The RB47 plane shot down by a Soviet fighter last July in the Barents Sea is a reconnaissance version of the combat B47.

To convert the six-jet bomber into an RB47, all bomb-carrying and much of the defensive equipment is removed. Then the plane is packed with long range cameras, mapping cameras and electronic equipment for checking on locations and frequencies of aircraft detection systems.

The altitude for a RB47 is given officially as "over 40,000 feet." Its top speed is a little over 600 miles per hour.

Nebraska Firm Buys State Land

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) Tschudy Farms, Inc., of Poinsett County, Ark., has been purchased by a Nebraska farming company for a reported $2.5 million.

Jay Tschudy, president of Tschudy Farms of Weona, Wednesday signed sale papers with a representative of Morrison-Quirk Grain Corp. of Hastings, Neb. Included was 9,000 acres of cultivated land and 4,000 acres of woodland.

The Tschudy plantation adjoins 20,000 acres Morrison-Quirk bought in Cross County in 1959.

Turnback Freeze Brings Bitter Fuss

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House today became involved in a lengthy, bitter dispute over a bill which would freeze county turnback funds on a basis of the 1950 census.

The House first passed the bill 70-27, but opponents promptly complained that it had been railroaded through without an explanation.

Benton County Rep. Hardy Croxon moved to expunge the vote and a parliamentary dispute erupted which lasted almost 45 minutes.

When both sides saw that the dispute could not be settled quickly the House adopted a motion to adjourn, because members had agreed previously to leave at 1 p.m. for a tour of state institutions at Conway. The adjournment had the effect of freezing the bill where it is with the motion to expunge the vote still pending.

It will be taken up after the House re-convenes at 10 a.m. Friday.

Tazark County Rep. John O. Miller called the bill up for a vote today but gave practically no explanation of it. It was not until after the Speaker asked for a roll call that opponents began to object that they had not had a chance to be heard on the bill.

Miller, aided by Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem fought off the vote to expunge.

The effect of the bill would be that counties which have gained population since 1950 would get no increase in turnback funds as a result of their population increase.

Miller said the bill involved only turnback money received from general revenues. He said this was about $1 million.

Seized Ship Ignores U.S. Proposal

By SAUL PETT

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Saying they will never surrender, Portuguese rebels sailed the seized liner Santa Maria today toward some neutral port to discharge 650 passengers held hostage for five days.

Rebel Capt. Henrique Malla Galvao ignored a U. S. Navy plea to turn back to South America to unload the passengers, including 38 Americans.

"Request you proceed any port northern South America you choose to discharge passengers," radioed Adm. Robert L. Demison, commander in chief of the U. S. Atlantic fleet. "Please advise port selected and time of arrival. Will attempt to arrange conference aboard Santa Maria as you request."

The Navy said the message was sent Wednesday night and there has been no reply.

A Navy patrol plane reported at midmorning it had picked up the Santa Maria 700 miles northeast of the mouth of the Amazon River still steaming toward the Portuguese colony of Angola in Africa.

Galvao had announced Angola was his destination. But it appeared more likely he might head for neutralist Ghana or Guinea, where he could expect a welcome as a foe of Portugal's Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

In a message earlier in the day, Galvao reiterated he would brook no foreign interference.

"We consider the ship the first liberated piece of Portuguese territory," messaged Portuguese rebel leader Henrique Malla Galvao. "We will never surrender or stop in face of all the fleets of the world."

While the United States and Britain sent warships and planes to join in the chase, neither was willing to use force to stop the flight of the 20,960-ton liner.

Galvao had most to fear from Salazar's navy, which was deploying units to head off the Santa Maria.

All naval commands in Portugal's overseas provinces were alerted. Portugal's newest and fastest frigate, the Pedro Escobar, was thrown into the search. The frigate has a range of 4,000 miles.

The U. S. Navy sent the tanker Cimisco to the area far out in the Atlantic to refuel two destroyers on the other side of the Atlantic ordered out to watch for the Santa Maria. The destroyers are the Vogelsang and the Gearing.

The Navy also reported that the atomic submarine Seawolf had been ordered to trail the liner. The submarine has been training in the Caribbean.

Cmdr. Charles Rainey, public information officer, emphasized that no attempt will be made to halt the liner "until a firm disposition is made at a higher level."

President Kennedy emphasized that U. S. officers had not been ordered to board the Portuguese liner.

Galvao in his latest message, sent to the Columbia Broadcasting System, said relations between the passengers and the occupation forces at my command are good.

When a Navy patrol plane first made contact with the Santa Maria Wednesday, Galvao said his destination was Angola, the Portuguese colony on the coast of Africa.

But this could be a ruse to mislead interceptors. The Santa Maria—at last report half way between Puerto Rico and West Africa and heading on a southeasterly course—still was in a position to swing back toward South America.

Freezing Rain Casts Icy Glaze Over Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Freezing rain cast an icy glaze on Arkansas today, leaving streets and highways slick and hazardous and forcing many schools to close.

There were no reports of fatalities due to weather, but many minor automobile accidents were reported due to the slippery roads.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the glaze was general over the state.

State Police reported all highways hazardous, with those in north and west Arkansas most treacherous. No highways were closed.

Most of the closed schools were in rural areas and were suspended because of the road conditions.

The Weather Bureau predicted little melting of the icy glaze with highs today near 30. It forecast lows tonight of 5-10 in the north to near 20 in the south, with rain, freezing rain and some sleet in southeast and freezing rain and snow in the northeast. It said the precipitation would end today.

Travel over the state slowed to a crawl. In the metropolitan Little Rock area police were deluged with accident reports and cars lined up for blocks on some slippery hills.

Bus companies said most buses were operating but generally were behind schedule. Greyhound Lines reported it was not running buses from Fayetteville north, but that other routes were operating. Midwest Trailways said its buses were running about an hour late, especially in the southeastern part of the state.

The icy glaze resulted from a mixture of freezing rain, sleet and, in some places, snow flurries. It generally left a thin film of ice, but in the Clarksville area and some other places the ice ranged up to an inch in thickness.

All Boone County schools were closed and many schools shut down in Newton, Carroll, Sevier and Marion counties. Other closed schools included those at Crossett, Ark. and Portland in Desha County, and Lake Hamilton, Culter Morning Star and Mountain Pine near Hot Springs.

Members of Co. Health Board Resign

The newly created County Board of Health composed of Ralph Lehman, chairman and W. R. Rounton, Mrs. Cline Franks, Mrs. W. M. Duckett Jr. and Dr. Forney Holt, today tendered their resignations to County Judge Orin Byers, explaining that as they now fully realize there now exists another Public Health authority with duties which parallel those of this board, and in order to resolve the conflict they felt their resignation was necessary.

These board members also served as the building committee for supervision of the construction and equipping of the new City-County Public Health Center that was recently completed and occupied. They took this opportunity to invite Judge Byers to review the records concerning the construction and equipping of this facility and offered their assistance in clarifying any item about which there may be any question.

Fliers Released by Russia to Be Home Friday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The two American fliers released from Soviet custody are expected to reach Washington Friday afternoon. President Kennedy will meet them on their arrival at Andrews Air Force Base.

The fliers, whose freedom from seven months of Soviet detention was announced so dramatically by Kennedy at a televised news conference Wednesday night, had originally been expected to get to Washington this afternoon.

But the White House announced today that the two men—Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead and John R. McKone—will spend the night at Goose Bay, Labrador, where they arrived this morning, instead of flying on to Washington, and into a predicted snow storm.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said McKone and Olmstead landed at Goose Bay at 8:35 a.m. PST.

Present prospects are that they will land at nearby Andrews Air Force Base some time after noon Friday.

Wives of the two men were at Andrews around noon today from Topeka, Kan., the home of McKone.

They will remain at the air base

U.S. Plane With 28 Aboard Is Lost in Frigid Waters

ARGENTINA, Nfld. (AP)—A U.S. military transport plane disappeared today near the southeast tip of Newfoundland. Canadian and U.S. planes and ships began a search of the frigid waters.

Information here was that 28 persons were aboard but a spokesman at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey said there were 23 persons—10 Navy crewmen and 13 passengers—on the four-engine Military Air Transport Service C-119. It was on a flight from Port Lyautey, Morocco, to Norfolk, Va., via the Azores and Argentina.

The last word from the missing aircraft was a radio message to Air Traffic Control at Gander, Nfld. The pilot reported he was 455 miles southeast of Argentina. There was no mention of trouble.

The C-119 left Lajes in the Azores Wednesday night. Royal Canadian Air Force search headquarters said it was due at Argentina at 6:37 a.m.

There was an unconfirmed report that a U.S. Navy pilot saw an explosion at 6:14 a.m. about 28 miles southeast of Argentina. Search officials said this might have been a flare.

Gander Air Traffic Control declared an emergency when the plane did not report by radio as scheduled.

Those aboard were given little chance of survival if the plane landed in the water. The air temperature was near zero in Newfoundland this morning. The Weather Office said the ocean water would be between 32 and 35 degrees.

Search planes had sunny weather to aid their hunt but high winds and flying spray created the hazard of icing for surface vessels.

The plane left the Azores with enough fuel for about 11½ hours flying. The fuel would have been used up by 10:30 a.m. today.

Drain of U. S. Gold Concern to Kennedy

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special task force on economic problems had to wait only a few hours Wednesday night to see President Kennedy adopt its No. 1 suggestion for curbing the drain on U.S. gold reserves.

Kennedy told his news conference the value of the dollar must be protected and can be protected without restricting the movement of private funds between the United States and the rest of the world.

The task force headed by Allan Sproul, former president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, met earlier Wednesday with Kennedy and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon. The group urged a strong statement by Kennedy that the dollar would not be devalued and that curbs would not be imposed on money movements.

While the 22-page report of the three-member committee emphasized the gold-dollar problem, it also included suggestions for stimulating the economy.

The task force recommended greater federal aid to the unemployed but said massive spending increases were neither necessary nor desirable to combat the business slump. The group indicated it expects only a mild and brief recession.

To bolster the dollar, it advocated these new measures:

1. Repeal of tax incentives designed to encourage private American investment in other industrial countries.

2. Reduction of the amount of foreign goods which may be brought into the United States free of duty by tourists returning from overseas. The amount now is $500.

In a statement, Kennedy called the report very useful and said the recommendations merited close attention.

The report was generally conservative in tone and frequently echoed the views and policies of former President Dwight Eisenhower and his secretary of the Treasury, Robert B. Anderson.

For example, the task force urged Kennedy to "pursue effectively" steps ordered earlier by Eisenhower in his effort to attack the gold-dollar problem.

The group thus indirectly endorsed Eisenhower's controversial move to gradually reduce the number of military dependents abroad.

Kennedy told his news conference the administration is reviewing the implications of Eisenhower's order. He said the question is whether some less harmful alternative would be equally effective in protecting the dwindling gold supply. He indicated no decision had been made yet.

SW Poultry Festival Plans Made

A second organizational meeting was held yesterday by the Festival committee of the Southwest Arkansas Poultry Festival.

Chairman James Morrow explained local plans to the 18 committee members present and a general discussion was held.

The committee voted to hold the festival this year in the Third District Livestock Show Coliseum with Haskell Jones as MC.

Any meeting will be called in the near future to formulate further plans and assignment will be given to members and organizations.

Control of El Salvador in Doubt

GUATEMALA (AP)—Control of El Salvador was in doubt today following a revolt by a self-proclaimed anti-Communist military junta and reports that supporters of the previous leftist junta were making a stand.

Troops loyal to the former ruling group were reported dug in at Zapote Fort in the San Salvador, strongest military post in the capital and located just across the street from the government palace held by the rebels. But reports filtering across the border said the new junta was negotiating with the armed holdouts.

Details were still sketchy as to the state of the revolt which erupted Wednesday in the smallest of the 21 American republics.

A member of the new five-man junta, Antonio Rodriguez Port, broadcast over El Salvador radio that his group had full command over the armed forces. Port said his group had acted because the country faced "very serious danger" from forces of both the ex-

Reports from across the border said the rebel command had arrested a number of leftist leaders and that students were demonstrating in favor of the old military-civilian junta that threw out
President Jose Maria Lemus on Oct. 26.

President Has Felt the Big Responsibility

By RELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has been in office only six days but the crushing problems and mighty responsibilities of it already have stamped him in manner and appearance.
He was a deeply serious man
Wednesday in his first presidential news conference.

He listened intently, with total concentration, to the questions.
Sometimes, he looked a little wary. Once or twice, a light frown natched his forehead between his eyes. He spoke more slowly than usual, carefully choosing his words. He smiled only once—whereas, before, a certain jaunty and sparkling humor invariably appeared when he met the correspondents.

This first news conference also was history's first live-televized presidential question and answer session. (President Eisenhower held one in San Francisco prior to the 1956 Republican convention, but it was about politics, not the problems of government.)

This fact, however, probably did not account for the deeply thoughtful, almost preoccupied air that Kennedy wore.

He had appeared on TV many times, as a senator and a candidate, and deftly fielded questions from reporters. The camera never appeared to awe him.

Nor did he give any sign that he was conscious of a vast TV audience watching him and the radio audience listening to the broadcast from the auditorium in the State Department.

He looked, if anything, even more solemn during the 36½ minutes of the conference than he looked last Friday noon when he took the oath of office.

Kennedy appeared only once to have missed part of a question.
He quickly demonstrated three from the dining table covered with a white cut work cloth. The Robert E. Lee theme was carried out in the decorations.

Seized Ship

Galvao, in a radio talk with the U.S. Naval pilot who tracked him down, refused to turn around and go to San Juan and bluntly told him: "Destination Angola."

But he added: "Will accept conference on board Santa Maria with U.S. authorities or any other than Portuguese or Spanish (Sala-zar's close ally)."

The 66-year-old rebel leader, a former army captain and leading Portuguese writer, told the Navy pilot, Lt. (j.g.) Daniel L. Krauss, he wanted to "discharge passengers unharmed—earliest." He has aboard 600 passengers, including 38 Americans, but messages from the Americans to their families indicated they were enjoying their unexpectedly extended cruise.

Maritime experts calculated that, on its last reported course, the 20,906-ton Santa Maria could make the African coast sometime Sunday, steaming at about 480 miles a day. The ship reportedly has plenty of fuel and food to sail even farther.

The Salazar government, denouncing Galvao's band as pirates, enlisted the aid of the United States, Britain and other NATO allies in the hunt after the cruise ship was taken over in the Caribbean early Sunday morning by an armed band who sneaked aboard in Venezuela and Curacao disguised as passengers.

But the United States, though sending warships and planes to keep watch on the ship, backed away from earlier statements by naval spokesmen that the Santa Maria would be boarded and taken in U.S. charge and her cap-tors treated as pirates.

President Kennedy told a Washington news conference Wednesday night that the U.S. Navy "has not been given instructions to conduct boarding operations," but only to accompany the liner.

"There are Americans involved and their lives are involved," he said, adding that the United States was also concerned because the Santa Maria belonged to a friendly nation.

Ice Storms Pelt Much of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An ice storm pelted sections in the southeastern half of the nation today and more snow fell across broad areas to the north.

Wet weather was reported in nearly half the country as winter's longest and most severe cold wave showed only slight moderation.

Below-zero temperatures stung Northern states again, again, marking more than a week of frigid weather.

A belt of freezing rain and sleet slicked highways and streets across broad areas from southern and eastern Texas through northern parts of the Gulf states, Arkansas, Tennessee and the Carolinas.

All roads in the northern half of Georgia were ordered closed by state police because of the hazardous driving conditions.

Schools in much of the Georgia storm belt, including those in Atlanta, were closed. Traffic also was halted on many roads in northern Alabama.

The ice storms, which broke out in Texas earlier this week, were blamed for at least eight deaths, including seven in Texas and one in Georgia.

North of the ice belt, snow and snow flurries fell in the central and upper Mississippi Valley, the Upper Great Lakes region, the central and northern Plains, the eastern Great Lakes and the northern Rockies. Light snow and freezing drizzle was reported in eastern Washington and Oregon.

Meanwhile, not much relief was expected immediately from the bitter cold in the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

The Weather Bureau forecast colder weather in the Upper Mississippi Valley and parts of the northern and west central Plains, areas hit by temperatures of more than 30 degrees below this week.

Some moderation was indicated in parts of Texas and the eastern Gulf as well as in the lower and eastern Upper Great Lakes.

But the cold air this morning again dipped deep into the South, with the 30s and lower reported in the Rio Grande Valley, along the Gulf Coast to western Florida and southern Georgia and along the Carolina coast. Warmest weather was in southern Florida, with 70 reported in Miami and Key West.

Spells Out Court Clerk's Authority

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill by Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs, to specify that municipal court clerks have authority to issue warrants of arrest.

Hurst told the Senate when he introduced the bill last week that there was some confusion on this point. He said the bill had been requested by Municipal Judge M. C. Lewis Jr. of Hot Springs.

The Senate also has passed a bill to authorize second class cities to have housing authorities, now restricted to cities of the first class.

The author, Sen. Marshall Shackelford Jr. of El Dorado, said that Junction City, a second class municipality, wanted to establish such an authority.

The Senate has amended a pending bill to fix salaries of municipal judges to increase the salary of the Russellville judge from $3,900 to $4,200 annually and that of the Batesville judge from $3,000 to $3,600.

Tennessee Hit by Snow, Ice

MEMPHIS (AP)—Freezing drizzle and snow glazed West Tennessee highways early today, caused scores of minor highway accidents, closed some schools and brought pedestrian traffic to a crawl.

The precipitation ended during the morning and traffic in most areas soon was moving without major hiccups. Worst of the accidents occurred at Ripley, when a Greyhound bus headed from Memphis to Detroit slid through the plate glass window of a variety store while moving at slow speed. No injuries were reported and the bus continued after a brief delay.

Arkansan Swaps Committees

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Arkansan who has served as chief of staff of the Senate Banking Committee has resigned to join the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as an expert on international tax problems.

The change of posts for John H. Yingling of Searcy, Ark., was announced Wednesday.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Pilot Tells of Spotting Santa Maria

By CHARLES E. TAYLOR
Representing U.S. Press

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—U.S. Navy pilot Lt. (j.g.) Daniel L. Krauss, who made the first contact with the seized luxury liner Santa Maria, told today how he circled in through muck and haze to find the big ship and talk to her radio operator.

It was a firing, dangerous patrol for the Sea Island, Ga., pilot aboard his Neptune patrol bomber. On the flight back to a landing at Surinam, he had trouble with one of his two engines but he landed safely with his crewman aviation technician 2.C., J. P. Smith.

By telephone to San Juan, Krauss said he made first radar contact some 70 miles from the 20,000-ton Portuguese ship.

As darkness descended, he flew out of the gathering haze of evening for a visual sighting. He could read the ship's name plainly through binoculars.

About 50 of the 600 passengers stood on the stern of the ship waving, Krauss said.

He circled the plane and sent blinker signals to establish the ship's radio frequency, and opened radio conversation.

It went like this, said Krauss: "Is all well aboard ship?" "All is well aboard the Santa Maria," the radio operator reported back in fair English.

In the background Krauss could hear broken English, apparently spoken by rebel leader Henrique Maita Galvao.

Krauss said he had been ordered to ask the ship to turn back.

"I will not go back," came the reply. "My crew is not a pirate crew."

This apparently came from Galvao.

Would Galvao accept a conference? Yes, crackled back the reply, Galvao would accept a conference with American officials or representatives of any other country—except Spain or Portugal.

Krauss said he got the impression Galvao wanted to discharge the passengers as soon as possible, although Galvao did not say so in as many words.

For 2½ hours, Krauss circled the ship. He said he could see no weapons.

Permits Schools to Share Facilities

By LEON HATCH
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Senate today passed 30-0 a House bill to permit school districts to share educational facilities.

The bill now will go to Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin said the measure would, for example, permit two or more districts to share the services and pay the salaries jointly of various types of teachers and supervisors. He said his district and others now pay jointly for a band director.

The same provision would apply to such facilities as buildings and teaching aids.

The Senate also asked Congress to extend "GI benefits" as long as selective service is in operation. The resolution was submitted by Sen. Clifton Wade of Fayetteville.

The Senate also passed a House bill signed to keep girls under 18 out of taverns and public dance halls unless accompanied by parents or guardians.

Lawmakers to Tour Colony

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas General Assembly will tour state government agencies at Conway this afternoon.

Both houses are scheduled to recess about 1 p.m. Legislators will board chartered buses which will take them to Conway.

A tour of the Children's Colony is set for 2 p.m. At 3:30 p.m. legislators will inspect state Civil Defense headquarters.

A social hour is scheduled for 4:45 p.m. at the Conway Country Club and Arkansas State Teachers College will host the lawmakers at a 6 p.m. dinner.

13 Years Old and All Mixed Up

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen:

I am 13. There is a 14-year-old boy that I like. Suddenly he dropped me for another girl, then liked me again and still does. I met another boy when I went to the baseball game the other day he smiled and I smiled back. I have a big crush on this boy.

My mother and father don't like the other boy because he smokes and has too much freedom to suit me and my parents. But every time I see him, I just can't help but think he is nice and that he is just going through a fad. What can I do?—Mixed up.

Dear Mixed Up: I think your mother and father are right about the boy who smokes. Take their advice. They know what is best for you. At 13 you shouldn't be dating seriously. Have fun!

Dear Helen:

My parents came from the Old Country before I was born 17 years ago. I am a boy in my last year at high school and enjoy the company of the opposite sex very much. I obtain good marks at school.

Last night my mother found out I took a girl to the movies. She hit the ceiling and accused me of everything from neglecting my studies to thinking of marrying this girl whom she called a nobody.

When she was a teen-ager, no boy dated a girl unless he intended marriage. As a result of all this, my parents refuse to let me use the family car again if I date another girl before I am 20.

Am I right in thinking my parents old-fashioned? If so, what can I do to solve my problems?—Helpless.

Dear Helpless: Educate your parents. Any boy of 17 is old enough to date provided the dating doesn't interfere with his studies.

You should be encouraged to invite your friends—girls as well as boys—to your home for record-playing or a meal. If your parents don't, they will have an introverted, socially maladjusted son, forever awkward and ill at ease, on their hands.

A word of counsel: Earn the money to buy your own car, even if it has to be secondhand. And when you do step out, do so on money you have earned.

Dear Helen:

I am 17, a high school senior, and wear the class ring of a soldier who has been transferred to Germany. Though discussing marriage in his letters, he never mentions an engagement ring. I feel that were he serious he would want me to have one. Before he left, he asked me to bank his money for him so we would have it when he came back. He promised to send it every month. Eighteen months have passed—and no money. I don't care about the money but a promise is a promise. I love this guy. What shall I do?—A.

Dear A.: You never should have acceded to this agreement in the first place. Don't jump the gun by acting like a wife while you're still a fiancée. What your soldier does with his money is his own business (ill you are married—when it becomes a partnership. An engagement ring is something

4 Texarkanians Held for Swindle

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—Four Texarkana men who allegedly swindled a retired minister out of $1,000 after gaining his confidence by holding prayer services with his invalid wife were charged with obtaining money by false pretense Wednesday.

Deputy Prosecutor John Goodson said the men represented themselves as termite exterminators and took money from the Rev. Jessie A. Mason, 81, over a 12-month period.

Mason said the men kept returning to his home and insisting that further treatment was necessary to rid the house of termites.

Several times, Mason said, the men would kneel and hold prayer services with his wife.

Miller County authorities identified the men Clarence Dancy, 40; Roedie Laveday, 48; Jessie Nelson, 34, and Johnny Laveday.

Officers said Roedie Laveday is Johnny Laveday's uncle.

All were charged in Miller Circuit Court.

The song "Dixie" was composed by Dan Emmett in 1859 for a minstrel show.

Arkansan Sentenced for Fraud Scheme

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A 30-year-old Arkansas soldier of fortune has been given a five year prison sentence — with four and one half years of it suspended — for fraud in promoting a scheme to locate a plane which supposedly crashed in a Mexican jungle.

Walter A. Youngblood, a native of Allene, Ark., was sentenced Tuesday.

He was accused of trying to raise money for an expedition to a southern Mexican jungle where he said a plane carrying a fictitious Ohio gangster and $800,000 had crashed.

Youngblood is the co-author of a book relating his adventures, which is to be published next month. He said he flew guns to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in the early days of the Cuban revolution.

The first industry established by European settlers in America was logging.

Fishing Report, If Interested

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Here is a Arkansas Fishing forecast from the state Game and Fish Commission:

Lake Conway: Bass and crappie fair on minnows. No other points reported.

Big Field in Women's Meet

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—A stellar field goes after the 16th Women's International Four-Ball Golf Tournament today with a good chance the title will be won by the 1959 champions.

Marlene Streil of Toronto and Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, were favored to defeat the 1960 titleists, Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., and Doris Phillips, Belleville, Ill.

Mrs. Streil won her third successive Doherty Cup at nearby Fort Lauderdale last week. Mrs. Johnstone and Miss Goodwin were members of the victorious U.S. 1960 Curtis Cup team, as were two other four-ball contenders, Judy Eller of Old Hickory, Tenn., and Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan.

WHAT DOES IT DO?
SIR—WOULD YOU LIKE TO BUY A COLOR REFRACTOR FOR YOUR TELEVISION SET?
YOU JUST HANG IT IN FRONT OF YOUR TV SCREEN AND YOU CAN SEE ALL THE SHOWS IN COLOR!
THAT'S AMAZING!
WHY, THAT WOULD BE WORTH HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS, IF IT WORKS!
IT DOESN'T—THAT'S WHY I SELL THEM FOR FIFTEEN CENTS!

U. S. Dealings Abroad Are Very Costly

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States is heading into its fourth year of red ink in its international finances. But the deficit—a prime reason for our loss of gold and for fears about the dollar's strength—may drop by almost one-half this year compared to 1960's worrisome drain.

These are the views of a group of economists and financial officers of some of the top U. S. corporations doing international business. They forecast this year's balance of payments deficit at $1.9 billion against 1960's estimated $2.2 billion.

At the same time some observers in Britain—a nation that got a big chunk of U. S. financial aid in the postwar years—point out that the United States can stop the deficits and the gold and dollar drain at any time.

The latest, the Daily Express in London, says whenever President Kennedy's advisers wish they can cut spending on "military projects abroad and on economic aid to foreign countries." The paper says that's what is causing the drain and it adds, "financial aid rarely helps the country that receives it." It says, now, that Britain should have stood "on her own two feet."

And in Washington it is reported that the President has ordered a study of our overseas military spending as it fits into the missile age.

But private industry's study group—the Balance of Payments Group of the National Foreign Trade Council—doesn't consider the reasons for the spending, merely tries to forecast the amount of this year's outlays.

It puts the 1961 outflow of dollars this way: Commercial imports of goods and raw materials will reach $15 billion, up $300 million from 1960. It thinks that transportation, travel and miscellaneous services will add $4.9 billion, about the same as last year.

The group expects military expenditures to drop by $300 million to $2.7 billion. And it thinks foreigners will take $900 million, the same as last year, in returns on their investments here.

But another $5.8 billion will be spent abroad. The group breaks this down into a net outflow of private capital of $2.3 billion, government capital of $1.2 billion, government economic aid of $1.7 billion, and private remittances of $600 million.

The grand total outflow thus comes to $29.3 billion, down $400 million from 1960.

The group thinks this decrease in dollar outflow will be due in the main to a big drop in the outflow of private short-term capital, which caused much of the gold troubles late in 1960. Also it forecasts a drop of $1 billion in private investment abroad.

But it thinks our imports will rise because of "inventory rebuilding, continued prosperous business conditions and a sustained strong sales effort on the part of European and Japanese exporters."

While it is sending $29.3 billion abroad, the United States is expected to take in $27.4 billion, a gain of $300 million over 1960.

When the books are finally balanced, Uncle Sam will be out $1.9 billion, the group says—providing, of course, government policies don't change, and business improves mildly later this year as generally forecast.

Solons Asked to Oppose Rules Change

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he had asked some Arkansas Congressmen to oppose a proposed purge of the House Rules Committee.

Faubus said, however, that he has no objection to an alternate proposal brought up after the purge movement failed to add three members to the committee's membership.

Both moves were designed to break up a conservative majority on the Rules Committee which House leadership felt might block some of President Kennedy's liberal program.

Faubus said he "contacted some Congressmen, I don't remember exactly who" about the purge. The victim of the purge would have been Rep. William Colmer, D.-Miss., who refused to support the Democratic ticket in the last presidential campaign.

"I don't believe in purges," Faubus said, "but I think the administration leadership in the House has a right to arrange its committees so it can get legislation to the floor for consideration."

Faubus said he received a telegram from Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett urging him to oppose expansion of the committee, but he did not plan to do so. Barnett reportedly wrote to all Southern governors.

The House Rules Committee was Faubus' principal topic at a news conference today. The governor declined to comment on apparent sentiment in the House for cutting taxes. The House has passed at least six tax relief measures.

Faubus revealed that he had "some information that some pretty big firms" are interested in bidding on the abandoned Naval Ordnance Depot at Camden. The facility was declared surplus and put up for sale two years ago.

Faubus said he hoped some private firm would buy the property and develop it for industry. He

Man to Trial for 2 Murders

BALTIMORE (AP) — Melvin Davis Rees Jr. was to go on trial in U. S. District Court here today for the kidnap-murder of two members of an Apple Grove, Va., family.

Rees was arrested at West Memphis, Ark., 15 months after the bodies of Mrs. Carroll V. Jackson and her 5-year-old daughter, Susan Ann, were found in a shallow grave near Gambrills, Md., on March 22, 1959.

Virginia authorities have charged Rees in the deaths of Mrs. Jackson's husband and another daughter, 18-month-old Janet. He is also accused in the murder of Mrs. Margaret V. Harold near

Asks Bill to Protect Jurors

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Senate committee today recommended adoption of a bill to protect jurors from attacks or intimidation.

It would provide minimum penalties of $200 or six months imprisonment for "assault, intimidation or economic reprisals" against any member of a grand or petit jury.

Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock, the bill's author, said he had discovered present law does not cover such instances.

The Committee, Senate Judiciary B, recommended Senate passage of two bills already approved in the House.

One would outlaw the Communist party in Arkansas. The second would prohibit girls under 18 from being at taverns or dance halls unless accompanied by their parents.

Another favorable recommendation was returned on a Senate bill to provide that a member missing three consecutive meetings of a state board would be deemed to have forfeited his membership.

The Committee also approved a bill for a state board of accountants.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

Space isn't all up in the air. It means a lot to you, personally. You grapple with it every day when you space your meals. If your space plan allows for snacking, this news of research may be to your liking. Researchers Clarence Cohn and Dorothy Joseph, at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, are trying to find out which is better when the total quantity of food for the day is the same: nibbling or eating three squares.

They fed two groups of laboratory animals the same amount of food. One group nibbled all day. The other was force-fed at spaced intervals. At the end of the experiment, animals that had been force-fed had twice as much body fat as nibblers.

Studies on animals tell us what a particular animal needs. But they are only a starting place for studies of human beings. Dr. Cohn has begun research to learn if nibbling will reduce body fat for us, as it has for animals.

Regardless of what this research tells us, nutritionists know there still will be two ground rules for nibblers:

- The total number of calories furnished daily when you nibble should be made to equal those furnished by the three squares that keep you to your ideal weight.
- Nibblers have to furnish the same nutrients as spaced meals and should include: meat or an alternate, milk or cheese, fruits and vegetables, enriched or whole grain bread and cereal.

Luscious Pie With Originality

Serve Spicy Cream Pie tonight, and you'll be surprised how quickly it will disappear. Its light and fluffy filling, made with lemon-flavored gelatin and blended with cream cheese and yogurt, boasts an unusually refreshing flavor. Topped with a crisp graham cracker crust, this delicious pie spells very good eating.

Spicy Cream Pie

1 package (3 ozs.) lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold water
1 package (3 ozs.) cream cheese
1/2 cup yogurt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 8-inch graham cracker crust*

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Meanwhile, beat cream cheese, adding yogurt gradually until mixture is smooth and fluffy. Add nutmeg, sugar and vanilla. Fold cream cheese mixture lightly into slightly thickened gelatin. Pour into graham cracker crust. Chill until firm. If desired, garnish with lemon slices and mint sprigs. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

*Graham Cracker Crust

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup melted butter

Combine graham cracker crumbs and sugar. Add melted butter and mix well. Press firmly with back of spoon on bottom and sides of 8-inch pie pan. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 5 to 8 minutes. Cool before filling.

Good to Know About Animal Kingdom

By DICK WEST

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—I spent so much time trying to keep up with the Kennedys recently that I felt behind in some of my other pursuits.

It's a good thing I finally became winded and dropped out of the presidential chase. The pause for breath enabled me to catch up with what has been going on in the animal kingdom.

I find that while we human beings were preoccupied with the inauguration and all of that, our animal friends — if they are still our friends — gained a lot of ground on us.

It appears they are rapidly closing the gap and in some respects have already overtaken us. Unless we get moving soon, we will lose the advantage we now hold. It may already be too late.

Brains But No Mouths

I would first call your attention to the recent revelation that the animal kingdom, working out of sight along the ocean bottom, has produced some creatures that have brains but no mouths.

The National Geographic Society reports that these creatures "are being hailed as a major biological discovery of the 20th Century," and no wonder. We have nothing to match them.

What we have done instead is produce a large number of people who have mouths but no brains.

The sea creatures have been biologically classified as "pogonophores." The human types have been socially classified as "crashing bores."

Obviously, the animal kingdom has the edge on us here. Any creature that has a brain but no mouth is in a good position to someday inherit the earth. And wouldn't pogonophores make wonderful wives?

Insect Head Superior

The human race also takes a beating in a report by the Smithsonian Institution on the studies of Dr. R. E. Snodgrass, an honorary research associate.

Snodgrass concludes, perhaps not to surprisingly, that the head of an insect is in some ways superior to the head of a man.

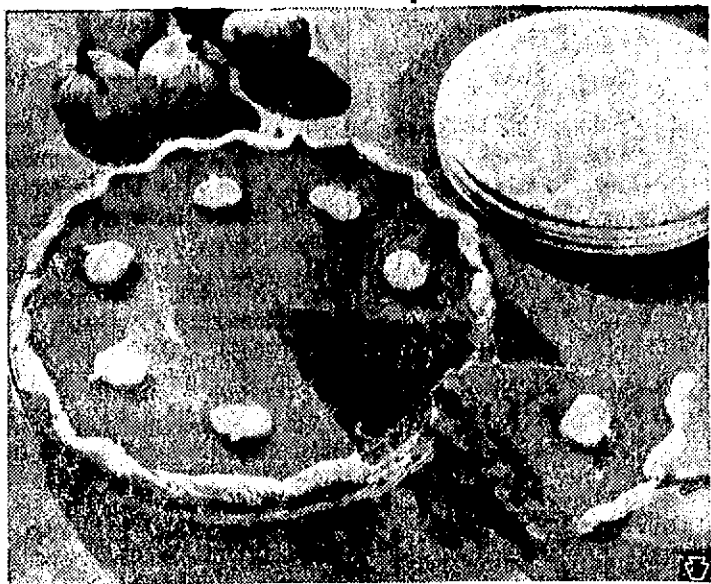

For one thing, you and I and Snodgrass must take a bite or a sip of our food before we can tell what it tastes like. At the restaurants where I eat, this is known as doing things the hard way.

"The taste organs of insects, on the other hand, are outside the mouth, very conveniently in some cases on the feet, so that an insect can select its appropriate food without first taking it into its mouth," Snodgrass says.

"...it is evident that a number of advanced ideas have been incorporated in the organization of the insect head that give the insects advantages that we vertebrates do not possess."

I think it was very clever of Snodgrass to notice this, but I wish he wouldn't be quite so blunt about it.

Cheese Pumpkin Pie

When the trees exchange their summer green for the rich shades of gold, red and brown, that is nature's first call to autumn. Another announcement of fall's arrival is the delicious spicy aroma of fresh-baked pumpkin pie escaping from the kitchen.

This fall pumpkin pie takes on a new flavor of cheese. In Cheese Pumpkin Pie, the distinctive flavor of sharp cheese is blended with the crust to both accent and complement the rich pumpkin filling. This elegant dessert will take the place of honor on your table among its traditional companions of plump turkey and rich cranberries.

To make the cheese pastry, cut the shredded cheese into the self-rising flour right with the shortening. Then mix in the water and your pie crust is ready to roll out and fill with pumpkin.

Enriched self-rising flour gives a tender, light pie crust — one you can be proud to serve. Thanks to enrichment, Cheese Pumpkin Pie will give your family and friends much-needed nutrients as well as much appreciated goodness. Enriched self-rising flour is a good source of calcium, food iron and the three essential B-vitamins.

CHEESE PUMPKIN PIE

1 1/2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
3/4 cup shredded sharp cheese
Measure flour into bowl. Cut or rub in cheese and shortening until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle with water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and press dough together. Roll dough to circle about 1/4-inch thick and fit into 9-inch pie pan. Trim and flute edge. Fill with Pumpkin Filling. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 55 minutes. Roll remaining pastry to 1/4-inch thickness and cut out pumpkin shapes. Prick with fork. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 20 minutes. For serving, place pumpkin cut-outs on top of baked pie.

Pumpkin Filling

2 cups cooked canned pumpkin
1/4 cup light brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 cup shortening
3 to 5 tablespoons cold water
Pumpkin Filling
Mix thoroughly pumpkin, brown sugar, spices and salt. Combine eggs and milk. Add to pumpkin mixture and blend thoroughly. Pour into shell. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Would Hold Line on All State Budgets

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mississippi County Rep. E. C. Fleeman suggested today that money for a college construction program could be raised by "holding the line" on budgets.

Fleeman said he was not making this suggestion as an alternative to a proposed soft-drink tax but merely to point out that budgets for most state agencies had been increased at a time when there was talk of a new tax.

"I think that if we hold the line we could save about $10 million a year," Fleeman said. "This money could be applied to college construction on a pay-as-you-go basis."

Several representatives have mentioned the possibility that savings effected in current revenues could be diverted for college construction, but Fleeman was the first to speak for publication.

Fleeman noted that Gov. Orval E. Faubus said in his inaugural address that the state, if conservative estimates were correct, would have a $17 million annual surplus of revenues. Faubus proposed to divide this money among the existing agencies with the public school fund getting about $10 million of it.

None of it, in Faubus' inaugural address, would be allocated to construction at the colleges, although the need for a major college construction program has been aired by college presidents for most of the past year. Before Faubus spoke, and apparently before he drew up his division of the $17 million melon, the college presidents had announced that they would ask the legislature to set up a referendum on a one cent a bottle tax on soft-drinks and a $52 million construction bond issue.

The University of Arkansas, seven state colleges, State Hospital and Children's Colony would share the bond money.

Fleeman said he tried to peg agencies budgets at current levels when budgets were considered by the Legislative Council in November and December. He was unsuccessful there, but he said he would try again when the budget bills are brought up in the House.

"I will introduce amendments cutting the appropriations back to current levels when the first few bills are brought up," Fleeman said. "If the House goes along with the budget cuts I'll amend other bills, but if the sentiment attempt."

Marilyn Gets Divorce

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe won a Mexican divorce from Arthur Miller, playwright and novelist, at Juarez Tuesday.

The 34-year-old blonde, whose name has become synonymous with sex appeal, filed for the divorce Friday, charging incompatibility of character.

Creditation of the college in serious jeopardy.

AM&N Worried About Funds

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas AM & N College officials say the school may be in accreditation trouble from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools if its budget appropriation is trimmed by the Arkansas Legislature.

There have been reports that an increase might be sought in the appropriation request now before the legislature. The figure which went to the legislature was less than the college asked.

A review committee of the North Central Association said it appeared "that the college was trying to operate on a partial salvation budget."

C. E. Larrison, AM & N board chairman, said if the recommended appropriation gets legislative approval it would "place the ac-

SPICY PRUNE-TAPIOCA

Light, Frothy Dessert

Chilled, and spiraled into tall, slim glasses, this Spicy Prune Tapioca is a dessert to charm guests. Or, two-layer style in a dessert dish, it's easy serving for a family meal. The taste is delectable in either case.

What gives this dessert great appeal is its happy contrasts — rich, clove-and-cinnamon spiced prunes in contrast to delicate tapioca cream... tender, meaty fruitiness against airy, cream frothiness.

Note, too, how simple are the ingredients... tart-sweet prunes, tapioca, cream, cinnamon and cloves. It's what you do with them that counts. And here you unite them to make a light dessert to serve at luncheon or for dinner... to guests... to family... any time.

Spicy Prune Tapioca

1 pound prunes
1 cup sugar
3 cups water
1 teaspoon ground cloves
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
2 eggs, separated
1/4 cup sugar
3 cups milk
4 tablespoons granulated tapioca
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped

Combine prunes, 1 cup sugar, water, cloves and cinnamon; bring to boiling point. Cover; simmer 25-30 minutes. Cool; pit. Chill. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually add 1/4 cup sugar, beating constantly, until mixture stands up in peaks.

Mix egg yolks in saucepan with a little milk; add remaining milk, tapioca, remaining 1/4 cup sugar and salt. Cook over medium heat until mixture comes to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Gradually fold hot tapioca mixture into egg whites, blending thoroughly. Add vanilla extract; cool, stirring once after 15 minutes. Chill.

When ready to serve, fold in whipped cream. Place alternate spoonfuls of spiced prunes and tapioca cream into parfait glasses, topping with prunes. Makes 8-10 servings.

New Toys For Preschoolers

Next to a child's food, his playthings are probably the most important contributor to his steady progress in muscular and mental development, educators and psychologists agree. Research, in fact, has shown many of the same principles which apply to the feeding of babies also apply to play situations.

A thorough knowledge of those principles now has led one of the nation's leading baby food producers to enter the toy field by creating a totally new line of toys for the preschool child. Each of the new toys has been designed with a specific motor control in mind. Because a child moves from stage to stage rapidly, toys are also planned wherever possible to have several uses, giving them longer play life and leading the child positively into the next stage of development.

Typical of such toys are the Giant Alphabet Blocks pictured above. First they are a toy the infant can see and touch, later fit-together toys which help develop finger skills. To the toddler, they become a "stacking" toy, and finally to the preschooler, a "building" toy. Their play life thus lasts easily from infancy through the first four years.

In addition to the requirement that toys be well conceived and properly designed, there is still another requirement of particular importance to parents of infants—sanitation. To overcome parental anxiety on this score, the company is using an unusual new material, Surfasoptic polyethylene, a recent development of one of the large chemical companies, contains a unique ingredient which combats bacteria on the surface of the toy, offering a positive health safety advantage. This property remains effective for the life of the toy and is especially effective as an active killer of the deadly staphylococci.

Pork, Beef Featured at Markets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wide variety of beef and pork is featured in supermarkets and neighborhood groceries this week.

Higher-priced rib and round roasts are the most numerous beef specials, although chuck is not neglected and some stores are pushing beef liver and bacon.

Loins of pork is the featured pork item in New England and the Far West, while chops are offered in the middle Atlantic states and smoked and fresh ham in the East.

Leg of lamb is popular in scattered sections, while frying chickens also are tops in some places. Specialty items such as sausage, spareribs, rock Cornish game hens and frankfurters are bargains in some stores.

Supplies of fresh vegetables and fruit remain seasonably strong.

Outstanding buys among fresh vegetables include Danish-type cabbage from storage, carrots, celery, endive, escarole, green onions, kale, parsley, eastern potatoes and yellow and orange Jersey varieties of sweet potatoes.

Good buys include beets, broccoli, new, round cabbage, cauliflower, Puerto Rican type sweet potatoes, eggplant, dandelion greens, spinach, lettuce, medium sized yellow onions, peppers, rutabagas, tomatoes and fall crop squash.

Macintosh, Cortland and Rome apples remain the best buys among fruits, along with cranberries, limes, tangerines and oranges.

Delays Action on Rules Change

WASHINGTON (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., today put off until next Tuesday a showdown vote in the House on his proposal to expand the Rules Committee.

A vote had been set for Thursday on the issue but Rayburn said he had received many requests from members unable to be present that he postpone the balloting until next week.

A close vote had been anticipated. The delay was regarded as a maneuver to give Rayburn more time to line up support for his proposal.

Rayburn has proposed increasing the committee members to 15 by adding two more Democrats and one Republican. The aim is to break a deadlock held by a coalition of Southern Democrats and Republicans now on the committee.

Law Professor Is Top Tax Collector

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mortimer Caplin, 44, a university law professor, soon will take over as the nation's top tax collector.

The White House announced Tuesday that President Kennedy will name Caplin to succeed Internal Revenue Commissioner Dana Lathum in the $21,000-a-year job.

One Charge Dropped in Iowa Case

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP)—U.S. Commissioner W. M. Forker today dismissed a federal charge of aiding and abetting a $2-million bank embezzlement against Harold E. Kistner Jr., Sheldon, Iowa, feeds manufacturer.

Frank Margolin, Kistner's attorney, moved to dismiss the charge after a Federal Bureau of Investigation auditor testified that shortages at the Sheldon National Bank date back 30 to 40 years by admission of Burnice Iverson Geiger.

"You can go to any bank in the world and find someone who has written checks without sufficient funds to cover them," Margolin said. He declared there was no evidence to show there was wrongdoing between Kistner and Mrs. Geiger.

Mrs. Geiger, 58, is accused of embezzling $2,126,850 from the bank. She was the bank's assistant cashier and a director.

Kistner was discharged from custody soon after the commissioner's ruling.

U.S. Atty. F. E. Van Alstine said he had nothing at this time to say about any further federal action against Kistner, former head of Northern Bio-chemical Corporation in Sheldon.

Only two witnesses were heard. The first was Edward J. Kail of Cedar Rapids, agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation Accounting Division.

Kail testified that audits of the Sheldon bank so far show that about $25,000 in checks cashed by Kistner and his wife between July 28, 1960 and Jan. 16, 1961 were not charged to the Kistner account.

Kistner's accounts in the bank for those dates showed total deposits of $17,021 and total amounts of checks drawn including those charged to his account, totaled $42,651, Kail testified.

Of the checks not charged to the account, Kail said, some were handed to the FBI agent the night of Jan. 16 by Mrs. Geiger before her arrest and others were found in two small filing cabinets—one by her desk and one in a small room near her basement office in the bank.

Meanwhile, Warren Dinkle, attorney for Mrs. Geiger who was present at Wednesday's hearing, told a Sioux City Journal reporter that the Sheldon woman may enter a plea to the embezzlement charge Thursday if the government is ready.

Castro Executes Victim No. 589

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime has sent its 589th victim to the execution wall.

Two Cuban army defectors were shot Tuesday in Pinar del Rio after speedy conviction on charges of leading a rebel band in the western mountains. The executions brought to 589 the number known to have been executed since Castro seized power two years ago.

Privacy to Prevail in New Policy

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—Those plumbings of history, newsmen with an ear for leaks, have their work cut out for them in the Kennedy administration.

President Kennedy, starting his first full week in the White House, seems to have laid down a policy of hush-mouth.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk was noted for not talking much when he worked in the State Department some years ago.

Rusk came away from the White House Monday, after talking with Kennedy, with the news the Kennedy administration wants quiet diplomacy.

Then there were the Democratic congressional leaders who perhaps for the first time had practically nothing to say.

When they came away from talking with Kennedy Tuesday, they may have been mumbling to themselves but they weren't even doing that to reporters.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson confided to reporters a piece of information which didn't send them racing for the telephones. He said the talk with Kennedy involved problems facing the nation.

It seemed only yesterday that President Eisenhower's congressional leaders could hardly wait to leave him before making statements.

This didn't mean they revealed much but, compared with the Democrats Tuesday, they looked like a bunch of chatterboxes.

If this clam-up is going to be Kennedy policy, it means reporters will have to work harder finding people who will leak news to them without being quoted.

Since Kennedy plans on having regular news conferences, perhaps he has decided that, if his administration does any talking, he'll do it.

This may explain the unenlight-ening explanation by Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, when asked how come the quiet-

"We are not tightening information," Salinger said, "we're trying to coordinate it."

There was a particular reason for hoping Rusk would open up. Over the weekend Soviet Premier Khrushchev had called in the American ambassador in Moscow, Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., and talked with him for hours.

But Rusk brushed aside would-be questioners with a statement: "The value of the diplomatic channel depends on its privacy." He wouldn't say what Khrushchev had talked about.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

They're With It—Nutrients and All

When a combo's with it and the leader has a beat that's crisp, the message comes through loud and clear. Such a combo can be found in the world of food as well as in the world of music. Leaders in nutrition who study foods and the nutrients they carry have this to say: Combos of ingredients add up to top nutritive value in custards, tortes, cakes, doughnuts, puddings, and pie. This message comes through loud and clear in new tables of food values just released by U.S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists.

To take a case in point—or in the round—consider the doughnut. The make-up of doughnuts is a combo of ingredients that carry a strong beat of nutrients: vitamins, minerals, proteins. The ingredients represent three of four essential, nutrient-rich food groups: enriched flour, egg, milk. When a baker puts these together, adds sweetness, shapes a beautifully turned rendition, you have an irresistible arrangement—a doughnut.

Most nutritionists are dedicated to the combo principle... that no one food provides all the nutrients we need each day. Your nutrient score is built upon a quartet of essential food groups. Repeat daily with your own improvisations:

4 or more servings of fruits and vegetables
4 or more servings of enriched or whole grain bread or cereal
2 or more servings of meat, fish, poultry, eggs, dry peas or beans
2 or more servings of milk or cheese

It is a lively combo of the essential foods that keep us with it... tuned to the beat of living that's a joy.

W. Virginia Is Example of Bad Times

EDITORS' NOTE — Conditions are grim in West Virginia. It is the prime example of bad times in the depressed labor areas of the nation. Nate Polowetzky, Associated Press assistant general business editor, touring these areas, reports on West Virginia in the following article.

By NATE POLOWETZKY
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Abandoned wooden houses, boarded up and rotting in the rain, some being torn apart for kindling, stand as grim symbols of the soul-killing unemployment that grips the southern West Virginia coal fields.

Dirty children, hungry and ill clothed, and sad faced men stand along muddy roads and stare into the mountains. The mines are shut.

Row after row of empty stores display — with optimism — "for rent" signs along the main streets of once prosperous coal towns. The mines are shut.

Half-mile long lines of empty coal cars stand mutely on railroad sidings waiting for cargoes that will never come. The mines are shut.

"The day before last Christmas," reports a civic leader in a coal town, "I delivered a $20 food parcel to a miner's family for my church. There was a husband, a wife, and, I think, six children. The day after New Year's I returned to deliver another package. Do you know that woman said the second package was the first bit of food to enter that house since my previous visit?"

Reports a housewife who helped in the state's 1960 census, "You wouldn't believe it but some families reported that not a cent—not a cent, mind you, had come into their house for a whole year."

This is the depressed area of West Virginia, one of the worst in the nation—an area that may never again—at least in the foreseeable future—be cured of its ills.

To help such areas the new administration of President Kennedy has given top priority to legislation providing for government help to improve existing industrial plants, attract new industry and retrain unemployed workers.

Very few in these parts see this—or anything much else—as a solution to the area's woes.

For the coal fields of West Virginia have been sorely hit by mechanization through which a comparative handful of men now produce as much, if not more, coal than scores did some years back.

And coal, which once dispensed wealth with ease, has had to abdicate in the face of changes in consumer and industrial tastes in fuel.

Production has failed to rise because railroads switched to diesels and electrification; homes and industries changed to oil and gas; foreign residual oil found its place in coal's traditional east coast markets, and some foreign countries put up tariffs against American coal.

It is unlikely these markets will be regained and even if production should rise it is almost impossible the old time employment will ever return.

What makes it even worse is that the situation may have little connection with the state of the nation's health. Things don't get much better during the nation's prosperity. But they get worse during recession.

The depression in coal also has caused unemployment in other industries dependent on it. Additionally, the state's glass ware industry has found stiff competition in foreign imports, leading to other layoffs and cutbacks.

As a result, some 85,000 persons are out of work in West Virginia. Between 30,000 and 35,000 have exhausted their unemployment benefits. At least 250,000 persons last December were receiving surplus food commodities from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and another 40,000 were eligible for surplus food.

The unemployment rate in the state is from 10 to 12 per cent, compared to a national figure of 6.4 per cent. In coal-producing McDowell County the rate is 28.9 per cent.

In the 10 years from 1950 to 1960, the state's population dropped from 2,500,522 to 1,800,000. The young and the eager were leaving.

The state's economic picture is not one of unrelieved gloom, however.

Such industries as power and oil and gas have expanded and provided new jobs in the Kanawha Valley around Charleston and new industries such as chemicals, wood processing, metals, plastics and rubber fabrication, have moved into the Ohio River Valley in the last five years.

This is expected to provide more than 6,000 new jobs in the Charleston area by 1963 and 19,600 in the Wheeling area.

Hope is also held for new industries and expansion in north central West Virginia and the eastern part on the Virginia border.

But even the most optimistic observers state these developments will be able to make only

WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE

By Henry Farrell

Copyright © 1960 by Henry Farrell Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: It comes as a shock to Blanche Hudson that her sister Jane has been with holding mail from her. Mrs. Stitt, the cleaning woman, found the letters in the trash. The fan mail is the result of a revival of Blanche's films on television. Blanche was crippled in car accident years ago.

Chapter IV

Abruptly, Mrs. Stitt held out her hand. "I'll take that and get rid of it." Retrieving the envelope from Blanche's lap, she folded it deftly over upon itself and jammed it into her pocket.

Blanche looked down, shielding her eyes from Mrs. Stitt's gaze, afraid she might reveal the fear that had suddenly come alive in a small dent in the coal fields unemployment on top of an increased labor force.

To help combat unemployment, the state has started some public works; new Gov. W. W. Barron increased the tax on consumer purchases to raise money for more public works and conservation programs; the state has begun thorough studies of manpower needs of the future with an eye for wholesale retraining of unemployed coal miners and others.

Among small communities there is a spirit of determination to improve their towns, straighten out tax laws, build better roads and communications facilities, new schools and recreational facilities. All with an eye to attracting new industries.

There is much talk heard of turning beautiful West Virginia into a tourists' paradise.

Plans are also being discussed for more research in other uses of coal to create new industries in the state and more production, as well as the establishment of local industries to process such natural resources as timber instead of shipping this natural wealth outside.

But these are off in the distance. The problem in the coal areas is immediate.

"Miss Blanche somebody's got to tell you straight out, and I guess it's got to be me. Your sister needs—well, she needs some kind of attention. And I don't care if you fire me for saying it, I don't! It's for your own good. When she gets into these—sulks—of hers, I just don't know how you stand it. She gives me the shivers. Maybe being close to her all the time, you just don't notice like anyone else would. But just in the time I've been here it's plain that she's a lot worse. Every day I see it..."

Blanche looked up sharply. "Worse? How do you mean that, Edna?"

Mrs. Stitt touched the pocket of her apron. "This sort of thing."

And the way she acts generally—like a little, spoiled kid sometimes. And how she tries to stop me from doing the things you tell me so she can make me do something else. It's hard to say exactly but—but it's getting—worse. I don't mind telling you now the subject's open I'd have quit this job flat a long time ago except for you."

Blanche pulled herself forward in her chair, feeling an urgent need — a compulsion really — to say something in Jane's defense. "Edna, I'm sure it isn't anything—serious. I think I understand Jane. She's always been moody, and she's been under a strain lately..."

"Maybe so," Mrs. Stitt broke in, "but I still say you'd be smart to have her see your doctor. This thing this morning—it's not so important, just by itself but—well, I get to thinking about what could happen to you alone in this house with her sometimes—especially when she gets to drinking—and I lay awake at night. I do, for a fact!"

Blanche reached out in quick distress. "Oh, Edna—no! I appreciate your concern. I honest do, more than you know, but—" Sensing, she thought, some subtle shifting of the shadows out in the hall, she broke off. After a moment's hesitation, she returned her gaze to Mrs. Stitt. "Where's Jane?"

"Downstairs," Mrs. Stitt spoke absently, still absorbed in her own embarrassment. "Miss Blanche, I apologize. I shouldn't have butted in like this. I knew I shouldn't when I started in—but—well, if you'll just try to forget it..."

"Oh, please, Edna, I don't want you to worry about it. You haven't done anything wrong. She felt a strong anxiety to have the woman leave the room and be away from her. "You really haven't."

For a long moment after Mrs. Stitt had gone Blanche sat in brooding silence, her previous mood of well-being completely gone. She started to turn back to the window, but stopped, thinking she detected, a second time, some slight movement out in the hall. And then remembering the letters, she gathered them up from her lap and slipped them into her pocket.

Leaving her hand against the letters for comfort, she tried to calm herself. Even so, she heard a distant voice screaming faintly against some obscure inner ear. "I got the talent!" it cried. "And I've still got it!"

Few Changes in Budget Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration today announced it will change only a few items in the budget former President Eisenhower sent to Congress earlier this month.

In a directive to all agency heads, Budget Director David M. Bell said a broad review of all federal programs will have to wait until President Kennedy prepares his first complete budget which will go to Congress in January 1962.

Eisenhower's budget, sent to Congress last week, was for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. It estimated spending at $90.9 billion and revenues at $82.3 billion. Eisenhower foresaw a surplus of nearly $1.5 billion.

Rocket Try Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Air Force technicians today studied telemetry data in the hope of pinpointing the reason for the third straight failure of an improved Atlas intercontinental range missile.

The 82-foot rocket plunged into the Atlantic Ocean more than 100 miles offshore Tuesday when its main sustainer engine shut down three minutes after launch—two minutes before it was supposed to.

Brushing the Blues Away

Some Chatter Around Wall Street

City Almost Panicked This Singer

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many of the technical factors which are signals for an approaching buying climax have been evident for the past week and a correction of sorts would come as no surprise, particularly with the historically bearish month of February close at hand, according to R. E. Buschbaum of W.E. Hutton & Co. He notes that low-priced speculations are now attracting more attention and are following in the wake of the so-called quality cyclical issues which have dominated the upside since the first of the year.

The revived enthusiasm could naturally reach dangerous proportions, Buschbaum says, but for the moment it does not appear to have gotten out of hand.

Moody's stock survey suggests sale of Caterpillar Tractor, Great Northern Railway, and Johns-Manville. It also would switch U.S. Pipe & Foundry into Sunray Mid-Continent Oil.

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co., says he would expect an eventual test of the all-time highs of a year ago, but on the way up, however, not only must the 645 area of the Dow-Jones industrial be penetrated but also

NEW YORK (AP) — "The morning after I got here," velvet-voiced Leontyne Price recalls, "I went up to the top of the Empire State Building—and was nearly tempted to go right back home."

"You could see the massiveness of the city, feel the pace of competition—and know how small you were. It seemed impossible to attain a career."

Stifling that panic, Miss Price stayed and studied—with spectacular results for the world of music.

Since first appearing before the public eight years ago, the soprano who began life amid humble circumstances in Laurel, Miss., has soared to international acclaim. Friday night she reaches another milestone in her debut with the Metropolitan Opera.

Miss Price—whose voice has been likened by one critic to "a skylark under the spell of some sort of benign bewitchment"—premieres in the principal feminine role of "Il Trovatore."

Although two other noted Negro women have preceded her in Met assignments — Marian Anderson and Mattiwilda Dobbs—Miss Price arrives with prima donna status in a variety of assignments.

Her appearance of the Met rounds out an impressive cycle of major opera companies, television and concert and recording fields.

"A cold fever breaks over me sometimes when I think how frighteningly fast it has happened," Miss Price says.

"My career has been almost too simple. The only serious difficulty for me has been performing and learning at the same time."

Tall and regal in manner, Miss Price defines her main purpose now as solidifying and extending her talents in musical drama. "I hope for a long operatic career," she says. "It is what I have wanted since first being exposed to opera in school."

Miss Price's major training began in 1948 when a scholarship brought her to the Juilliard School of Music, after B.A. studies at Central State College, Wilberforce, Ohio.

A Laurel banker and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Chisholm—in whose home an aunt of Miss Price worked—helped finance her years of study.

Her teacher at Juilliard, Florence Page Kimball, has remained her single mentor ever since. Miss Kimball and her own parents are the great forces to whom she credits her accomplishments.

At least once each year she returns to Laurel, where she was born Feb. 10, 1927, to see her father and mother—James, a carpenter, and Kate, who worked as a midwife.

In private life, Miss Price is the wife of baritone William Warfield, whom she met during her first extended singing engagement on tour in "Porgy and Bess."

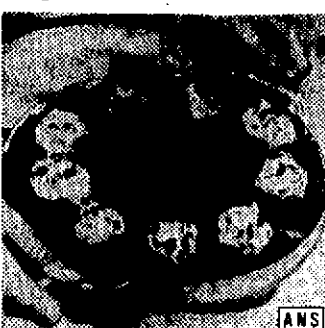

Outwardly Miss Price exhibits none of the evidences of temperament that often surround artistic greatness. But, she says, "even a meek person has temperament and so do I. I guess I am slow to anger—but I do arrive there often."

Drought in China

TOKYO (AP) — Vast areas of Red China still are threatened by drought despite recent rain and snow, the Communist New China News agency reported today from Peking. The Communists previously had admitted serious food shortages in the past two years.
